machines cannot replace people

Mr. Shivers and Jimmy Erwin knew, and everyone else knew as well: 1969 was the year machines came to Lee. Some of the machines were small yet conspicuous—like Mr. Shiver's scooter. Some were long-awaited and definitely welcomed—like the air-conditioners. Another—the computer—was unseen but tremendously powerful. No matter how complex or efficient any of these machines were, though, they could never do all of the things that people in a school must do. And so it was discovered that in education, though machines assist man, they will never replace him.

Valerie Galayda flipped a switch and the voice began, "Hola, Isabel. Cómo está?" Margaret Cavenagh fed a basic to the terminal computer—and a simplified answer appeared. The reading projector clicked—and words flashed across the screen. Sue Anne Messenger punched her cash register and $.45 + $.16 = $.61. A mimeograph turned—and 75 copies of tomorrow's test slid out.

In each of these ways, machines at Lee this year have made both life and learning easier.

Ask Mrs. Yoes or Mr. Crutchfield if the computer made their first day of school any easier. They should have recovered by now.

machines can

For more than a month in the fall of 1968, Anne Andrews, Jim Lawler, Bill Brune, John Lange, and Huey Keeney felt like human computers. Lee's representatives to the Houston Lighting and Power Company's High School Prep Bowl, these five categorized and filed away in their minds more facts than some people learn in a lifetime. The result was anything but mechanical; for, tension, determination, anxiety, relief, joy, and pride were experienced by everyone in the studio where the prep bowl was held. None of the people who attended any of the three contests would deny that, even though knowledge can be attained by machines, it is far more exciting when it comes from humans.

Three years passed and the 680 who entered as sophomores emerged as graduates. Learning, for them, had been a very personal experience. They had made good friends and lasting enemies. They had been elated and they had been disappointed. They had distinguished themselves and they had failed. They had learned from each other and, for this reason, they were ready to meet the future.

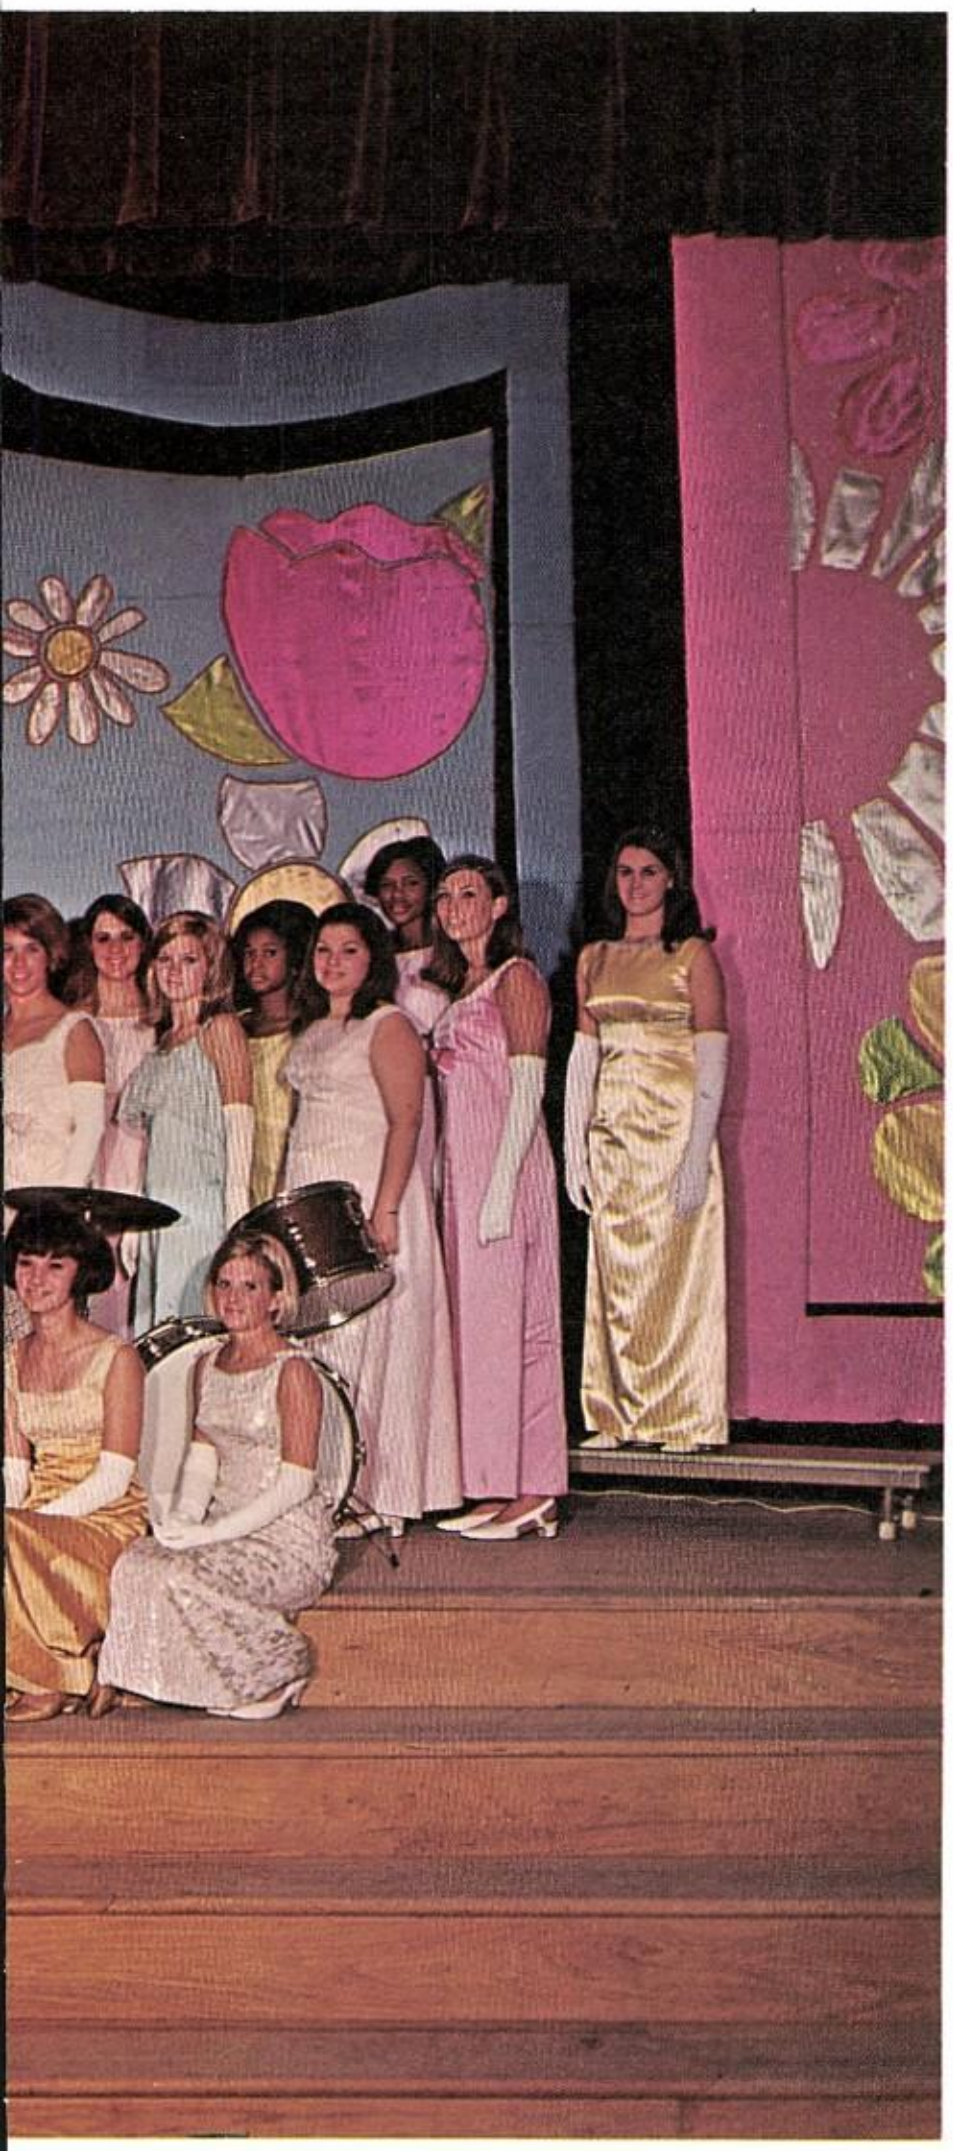
people who work together

accomplish more



When people at Lee work together in clubs, they win speech tournaments, sing on television programs, and host state-wide conventions. They operate a store for school supplies, keep the cafeteria clean, and tutor weak students. People who participate in clubs not only enjoy themselves, but perform many services for Lee as well.

they keep general order

The American Legion Club is a service organization which operates the General Store. Here students can find almost anything from last minute paperbacks and cough drops to pencils and erasers. The club holds social functions at midterm and at the end of the year. Members of this club have received the American Legion Award in junior high school, or were runners-up. The award is based on the scholarship, leadership, and service abilities of each of the students. Sponsoring the club is Mrs. Velma Brennan. All funds made in the General Store are returned to the school through special projects. This year the club gave $600 to help buy a Xerox machine for the library.

girls aid community

Helping the underprivileged was the major project of the Anchor Club in the year 1968-1969. During the Thanksgiving holidays, the girls brought canned goods and a turkey to help a family whose house had burned down a few days before. The spring project was to have a Valentine's party for a group of children in the orphanage.

In order to be accepted into the Anchor Club, girls must have a 3.5 grade average, and meetings are held twice a month on Monday mornings at 7:30. Each year the club, sponsored by Mrs. Cornelius Smith organizes Career Day.

lifting morale builds confidence

The spirit of 1968-1969 was tremendous. The key factor in this spirit was the Booster Club, which spent many hours in preparation for all the football and basketball games. Countless signs, such as "Cashew 'Em McNutt" and "Hospital 'Em Ward" were painted, and every variety of cupcake imaginable was distributed to the boys during their lunch periods. Hours of work went into the skits performed at the pep rallies. One rainy November afternoon, spirited students assembled at Delmar Stadium to blow up thousands of balloons for the Lee-Lamar football game.

By working especially hard and lifting morale, the Booster Club brought Lee a year more spirited than any other in the past. Mr. Robert Pirtle and Mrs. Wenona Fleming are the sponsors of the club, and Debbie Vaughan was elected Booster Club Sweetheart.

Come See Us, a phrase well-known to Lee students, is the slogan for the Christian Student Union. Sponsored by Mr. Harris Butler, the club had a record attendance of 108 students at its first meeting, and continued throughout the school year to maintain this number.

The Christian Student Union studies Christian ideals and principles with the aim of encouraging students to make application of these principles in their life at home and at school. To become a member, a student must attend three meetings.

The "Charger," a bulletin containing current items of interest, was published by the C.S.U. and distributed monthly by its members. Highlighting the Tuesday morning meetings were films and inspirational talks by different speakers.

dramalee stages productions

Talent, ambition, and determination to succeed describe the members of Dramalee, a club which produces the stage shows at Lee. On November thirteenth and fourteenth, the comedy "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" was produced with much success. "Annie Get Your Gun," a well-known musical about the old West, was a hit on February twenty-eighth and March first.

Everyone enjoys these finished productions, but few realize the hours of preparation put into them. Sewing costumes, practicing dance routines, and checking lighting effects are all part of the final show. Rehearsals are held five days a week and on weekends to reach the perfection and precision needed to make the plays successful. This year, sponsoring Dramalee for the first time is Mr. Fred Smith.

dixi-liers means dedication

The Dixi-liers, the girls' chorus at Lee, provides a high quality of entertainment for the many assemblies and programs throughout the year. The purposes of the club are to learn the fundamentals of music, to take part in choral contests, and to form lasting friendships among the members.

The year 1968-1969 was a busy one for the Dixi-liers, beginning with their fund raising project of selling fruitcakes. Led by Miss Grant, they performed successfully for the Bellaire Chamber of Commerce, the D.A.R. assembly, the Rotary Club, and at the University of Houston Student Center. The group also sang on a television program during Christmas.

Several members of the German Club at Lee were fortunate enough to spend the summer of 1968 touring Germany and Austria. During the school-year, songfests were held and several movies of Austria and Germany were viewed by the members. Sponsoring a German Day on campus displaying German costumes and products was a new project this year.

Sponsored by Mrs. Claudia Rost and Mrs. Fae Landry, Deutsch Verein attended a spring convention in Arlington, Texas where they produced a play. Deutsch Verein has their own German Band, which provided musical entertainment at the convention.

The Quill and Scroll Club at Lee is comprised of staff members working on the newspaper and yearbook. The requirements for admission to the group are one year of service on the SABER for yearbook workers, sixty inches of published editorial writing and one hundred and twenty inches of published advertising for a staff member on the TRAVELER. Quill and Scroll is a national journalistic honor society for high school students. The Lee chapter was started in 1962, and is now sponsored by Miss Peggy Reed.

Endeavoring to serve Lee by inspiring good citizenship and leadership throughout our school is the foremost aim of the Hospitality Club.

One of the more exciting events of the year is B E day which the whole school enjoys. Teachers are surprised with birthday honors. One of the main projects is a Christmas party for the underprivileged children. Our stimulating May Fete is honored with favors made by the girls.

Members qualifying with a 3.0 average and an E in conduct hold their meetings the first and third Wednesday of each month; where the sponsors Gloria Hudgins, Charlotte Haynes, Patlee Etter, and Gay Etter and the members plan all the activities.

quiet efficiency runs the library

Playing an important role in the active life of Lee is the Library Club. In February, the members acted as hosts for the State Convention of Library Clubs held in Houston. Each year the club engages in a special project to benefit the library and school, and also encourages the use of the library by all students.

Decorating the library is a Christmas project, while making posters for the bulletin board to publicize important events is an all-year job. Any student with an interest in working for the betterment of the library is welcome to join.

music is their business

The Marching Generals practice long and hard in order to perform their precision drills at the football games. Mr. Jerry Perkins sponsors the marching band, and accompanied them to competition in the University Interscholastic League and to the Buccaneer Festival in Corpus Christi in May where they performed.

The Spaghetti Supper is sponsored partly by the Marching Generals in the fall, and in the spring they sponsor the Spring Concert.

Le Melee is a club designed to provide a sport for every girl at Lee. It is open to all girls who wish to participate. The girls become active members when they have participated in one activity sponsored by the club. Le Melee provides intramurals in all sports for girls, including the annual mixed volleyball game.

Heads of the different sports are Michele Dore, Tennis; Cindy Borneman, Archery; Laura Thomas, Basketball; Carroll King, Softball; Janie Wolfinger, Badminton; and Kathy Langford, Volleyball.

The intramurals are not only fun, but by winning the tournament, the girls earn points in Le-Melee and receive a letter at the end of the year.

parlez-vous français?

Mrs. Peterson, Marlene Henderson, Lesa Curry, and Carroll King are seen enjoying themselves at the Christmas party.

Active in school and community, the French Club welcomes any Lee student with an interest in French who will work for the betterment of the club. Sponsored by Mrs. Miriam Peterson, the group invited a French speaker to tell them about France, the customs, the food, and the people. To learn more about the French language, the students sang French songs and listened to French records.

In the springtime, the club as a group attended a French play, and held the annual banquet.

they have enthusiasm

The Lee Lieutenants promote school spirit by being spirited themselves. At each football game, a different routine based on music ranging from the Beatles to the Tijuana Brass was performed. The girls are judged for their appearance, enthusiasm, and ability, and form one of the most hard-working service clubs at Lee.

n.h.s. sponsors self-help

Participation in the community Heart Drive was a special project of the National Honor Society on February 23, 1969. Sponsoring a session before school in which any student can receive help in English, mathematics, or science was also an activity of the Honor Society.

The function of the club is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, promote leadership, and to encourage the development of character in students at Lee. Qualifications are a scholastic average of 3.2 based on all high school grades, and students are admitted on a basis of grades and leadership points earned at Lee.

staff publishes best-seller

To a Lee student working on the SABER, the word yearbook is synonomous with hard work. Each staff member devotes one class period every day to the yearbook, and must be willing to spend many hours away from school handling the hundreds of details involved in publishing a yearbook.

Imagination is necessary to the work of a staff member, for he must write copy and headlines, schedule countless pictures to be taken, and then crop these pictures to fit layouts. November, January, and March are the months of the three SABER deadlines. During these months, T-2 becomes tense. Typewriter keys begin to fly, and everyone pitches in to help complete the pages due to be sent to the publisher.

New staff members are usually picked in the late spring of every year, and are invited to the SABER Banquet. Mrs. Margaret Wisdom is the sponsor.

council provides leadership

Serving Lee in a variety of ways is the Student Council. Besides preparing the calendar each month for the homerooms and running all school elections, the Council plans a special project each year to benefit the school. This year the Robert E. Lee Hall of Fame was begun as the project in order to honor students who have contributed highly to Lee.

Outside of school, the Student Council engages in a fund-raising drive and participates in the Teen Jury. One student from each homeroom is elected to the Council, and must have a "B" grade average and not more than one G in conduct.

In November, several members of the Student Council participated in the Talent Show, portraying comic strip characters such as "Daisy Mae" and "Peanuts." Sponsoring the club is Mrs. Arlene Parson.

The Robert E. Lee stage orchestra, sponsored by Mr. Edward Trongone, supplies the music for stageshows, programs, and concerts at Lee.

During February, the Texas Music Educators Association Convention was held in San Antonio and Lee had nine students attending the convention. Hal Robinson and Mary Fulgham made first-chair in the All-State Orchestra. Karen Fasshauer, George Founier, and Levanna Leno made second-chair on their respective instruments.

To try and keep young Texans aware of past and present accomplishments and contributions of Texas and her citizens is the function of the Texas History Club. Sponsored by Mr. Joel Harrell, the club visits various historical sites in Harris County, such as the San Jacinto Monument.

Not only do these hard-working journalists sell hundreds of ads to finance the newspaper, but they also cover all Lee's sports events, and write human interest stories on individuals at Lee.

could this be the teacher of the future?

Machines are like teacher's aids: they play tapes, project films, mimeograph tests, and record speeches. They cannot, however, explain why a mistake is wrong or show how some concept applies to personal experience. Machines do not inspire students to improve themselves. Surely, they will never replace people as teachers.

faculty

Concern, apprehension, and even worry clearly show in Mr. Shivers' face any time a Lee team is behind on the scoreboard.

But he's all smiles when Lee is winning, and the first one to congratulate Prep Bowl alternate, Huey Keeney, and coach Arthur Crutchfield.

he makes the decisions

If the office smells like aged tobacco and a favorite pipe, he's responsible.

If the band marches down the hall playing "Dixie" before the Lamar game, he's responsible.

If a flying yellow scooter zooms into Miss Etter's Spanish class, he's responsible.

If school is dismissed at 2:00 on the afternoon of Open House, so the teachers can get their hair done, he's responsible.

If it is Robert E. Lee Senior High School, he's responsible.

The man who heartily supports every Lee athletic team is the same man who works diligently with the P.T.A. on every project.

He's the one who directs the entire faculty, yet takes time to joke with students in the halls. He's responsible for everything that happens here.

He's Mr. J. T. Shivers, and he's our principal.

MR. J. T. SHIVERS
Principal

Being assistant principal, as Mr. Lewis will verify, is a difficult job. To an assistant principal goes the "dirty work"—the regulating of haircuts, the issuing of conduct cuts, the handling of disciplinary problems. To him, goes the supervision of textbooks, parking procedures, and ticket sales. To him goes much of the responsibility for seeing that a school operates smoothly and efficiently.

As assistant principal, Mr. Lewis capably fulfills all these duties and finds time for other activities as well. Like Mr. Shivers, he attends all extracurricular events; he spends time among the students, becoming acquainted with most of them personally; finally, even though he is second in command, he is a man well-qualified to direct the administration of Lee High School.

MRS. MARY CAROLYN SMITH
Dean of Women

"This is your third tardy. Go talk to the dean."

"You lost your glasses? Go talk to the dean."

"Doctor's appointment? The dean has to approve that."

"Check that poster with the dean."

"The dean has to approve all club projects like this."

One of the busiest people at Lee is the Dean, also known as Mrs. Mary Carolyn Smith. Officially titled as Dean of Women, Mrs. Smith has duties which range from supervising all club activities and solving problems to patrolling the cafeteria during lunchtime.

A friendly person who likes to talk to everybody, Dean Smith is well-known to teachers and students alike. Her dedication to Lee has greatly contributed to its reputation as an outstanding, well-disciplined high school.

preparing students for college

At one time or another, every student at Lee encounters dangling participles, faulty references, and comma errors. Every student meets Gene of A Separate Peace, Jim of Huckleberry Finn, or Eustacia of Return of the Native. Every student is introduced to an onomatopoeia, iambic pentameter, and the Italian sonnet. Every student discusses self-realization, the conflict between illusion and reality, and man's inhumanity to man. In short, every student at Lee studies English.

With Mrs. Velma Brennan as chairman, the English department offers far more than a basic study of grammar: it offers a survey of literature with emphasis on its direct application to everyday life. For this reason, English is outstanding as a college-preparation course.

computing and progressing

While sophomores are struggling with parallel planes and juniors are expanding the binomial theorem, many seniors are memorizing the trig functions of common angles. Geometry, algebra, and trigonometry, though, are not the only math courses open to students at Lee. A student may choose to investigate the theory of bounds—by taking calculus. He may choose, instead, to work with permutations—by taking elementary analysis—or he may learn to set up coded programs in a computer math course. Each of these many subjects is included in the mathematics department, a department guided by Mrs. Thera Yoes, which can give interested students a very thorough mathematical background.

Biology, chemistry, physics, oceanography, and physiology—these are the science courses taught at Lee. Heading the science department is Mr. Howard Behrens, whose department is known as one of the most difficult in the school. Though this reputation may be deserved, science courses can be very fascinating. After all, for what class besides oceanography does the teacher send his students to the beach to do homework! Difficult, fascinating, or not, the subjects taught by this department are extremely important in today's world.

developing better citizens

How did America begin? What relation does our country have with the rest of the world? What is the responsibility of an individual citizen? These and other questions are studied in American history, world history, government and economics. Like English, history and government are required of every graduate. language makes well-rounded students

It is not at all unusual for a person walking down the hall to hear, "Hola, Jerry!" or "Quelle heure a-t-il?" or even "E Pluribus Unum;" for, languages are a big part of the curriculum at Lee. Not only are Spanish, French, and Latin offered, but courses in German and Russian are taught as well.

According to Mrs. Elanor Huddleston, the department's chairman, a great number of Lee Students receive advanced placement for languages in college. If this is any indication of her department's effectiveness, then Lee students are very fortunate to have such capable language teachers. Besides, learning another language is muy divertido!

Sometimes people suggest that a typical education is too abstract, that subjects taught have too little practical application tø life. Lee's industrial arts department, however, is designed to see that such criticisms are meaningless. building strong bodies

In recent years, public attention has been focused on physical fitness. A natural result of this interest has been greater emphasis on school's physical education program. At Lee, girls as well as boys may participate in a variety of sports. For girls, there are basketball, softball, archery, volleyball, tennis, badminton, and even modern dance. For boys, there are baseball, football, basketball, track, and golf. Unfortunately, the only mixed sport offered is an occasional volleyball game.

Boys who choose to enroll in the National Defense Cadet Corps are exempt from P.E. Major Solon Tate, a fairly recent addition to Lee's faculty, is quickly building up the Corps' program of military training.

Terry Conner, poet; Cordel Robinson, chaplain; Jim Norman, lawyer; Debbie Vaughan, prophet.

Lee's 1969 graduates have filled their last year with many activities. To plan and coordinate these activities, each senior homeroom elected a representative to the Senior Cabinet. Cabinet members have worked with Mr. Hill, the senior sponsor, on every project from nominating class officers to collecting senior dues. Assisting the cabinet have been two other groups: the prom committee and the gift committee. Needless to say, the prom committee planned months ahead for the activities of May 16. The gift committee not only made recommendations about the seniors' gift to Lee, but also chose the gifts won by students who purchased their prom tickets with books of trading stamps.

In the rush of graduation preparations, however, 1969 seniors did not neglect their academic work. Fourteen of them, in fact, were selected as National Merit Semi-finalists. The record of these students reflects the scholastic excellence of their class as a whole.

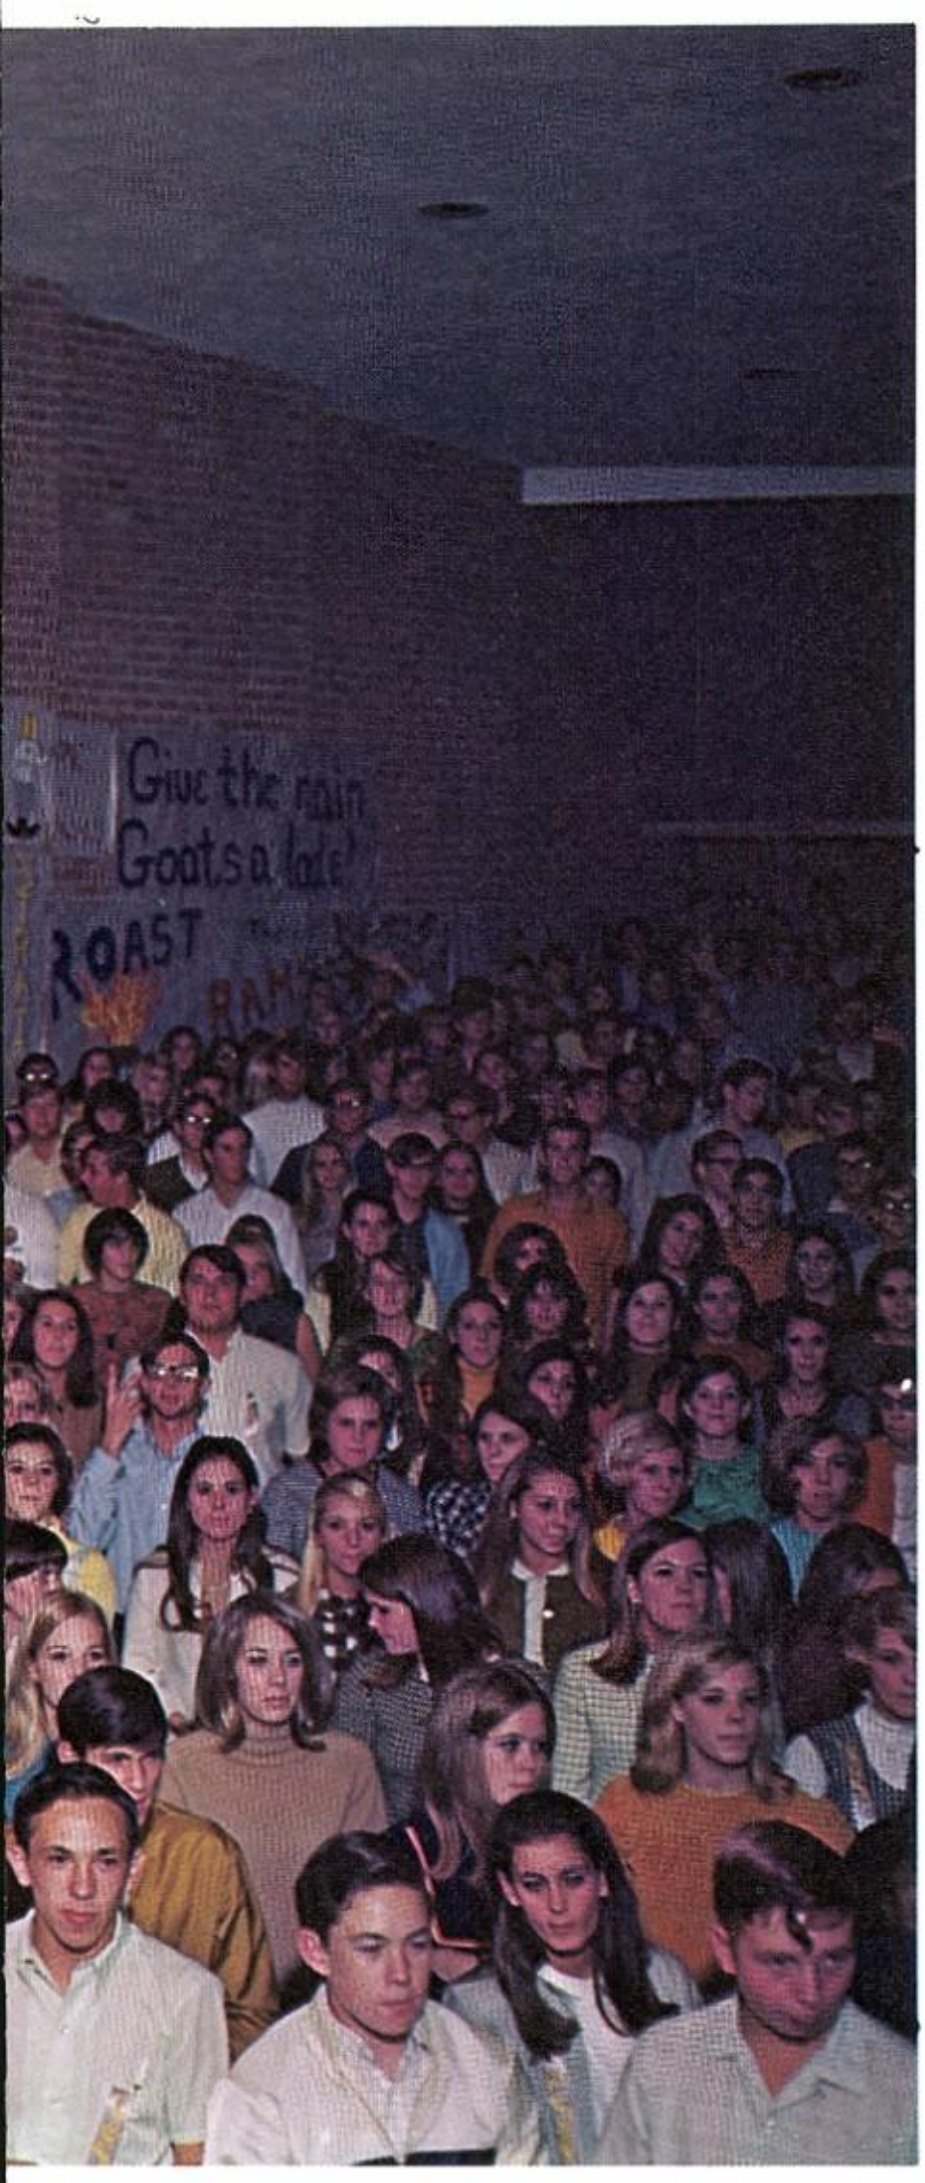
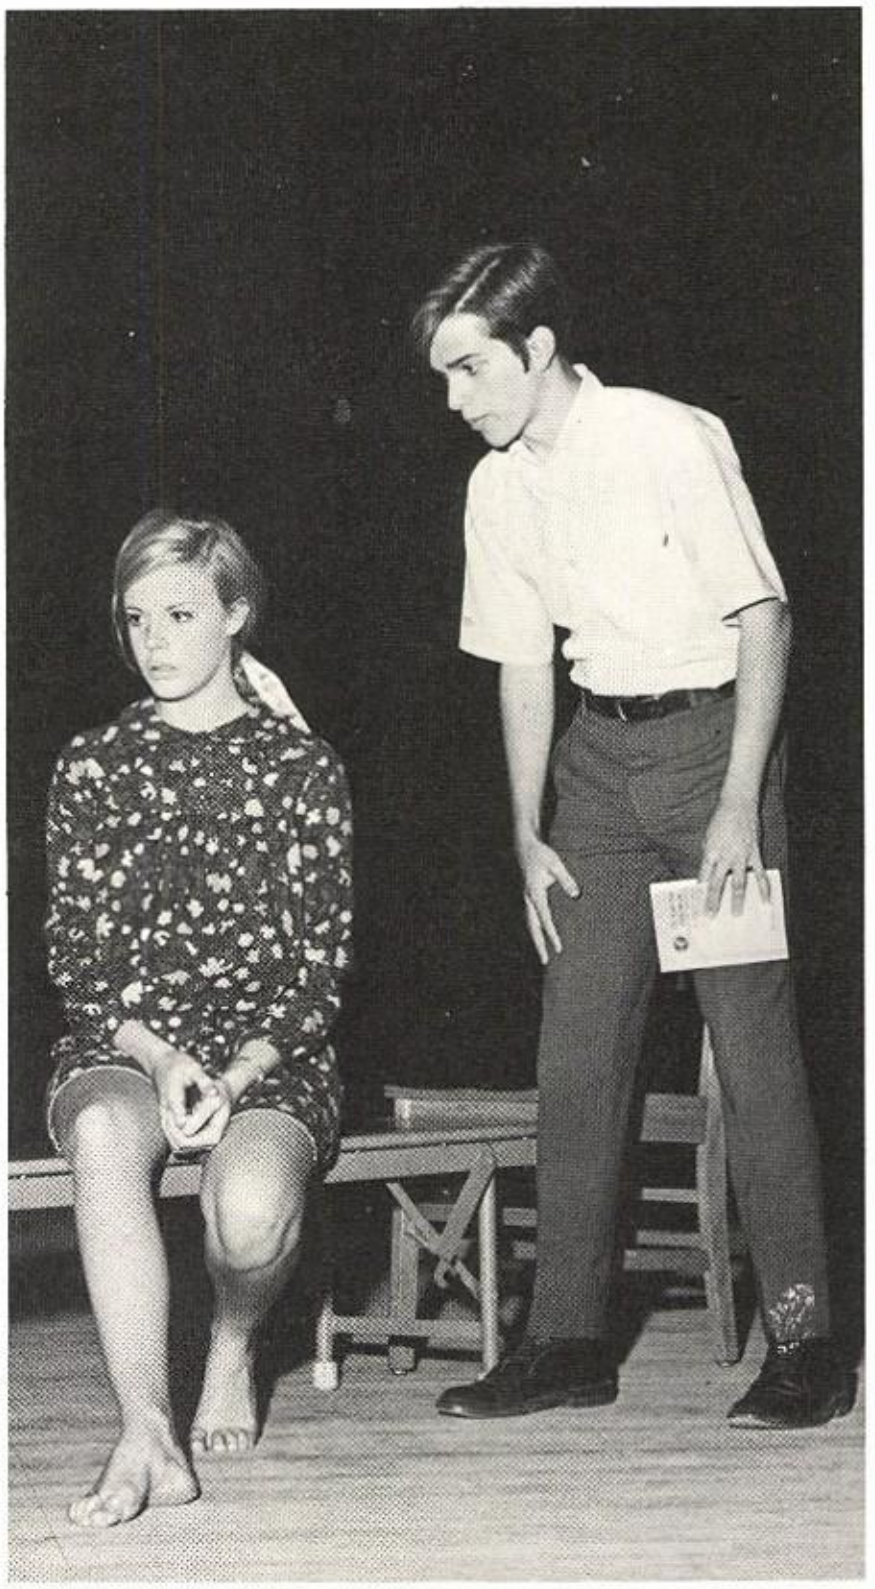
there's more to schoo

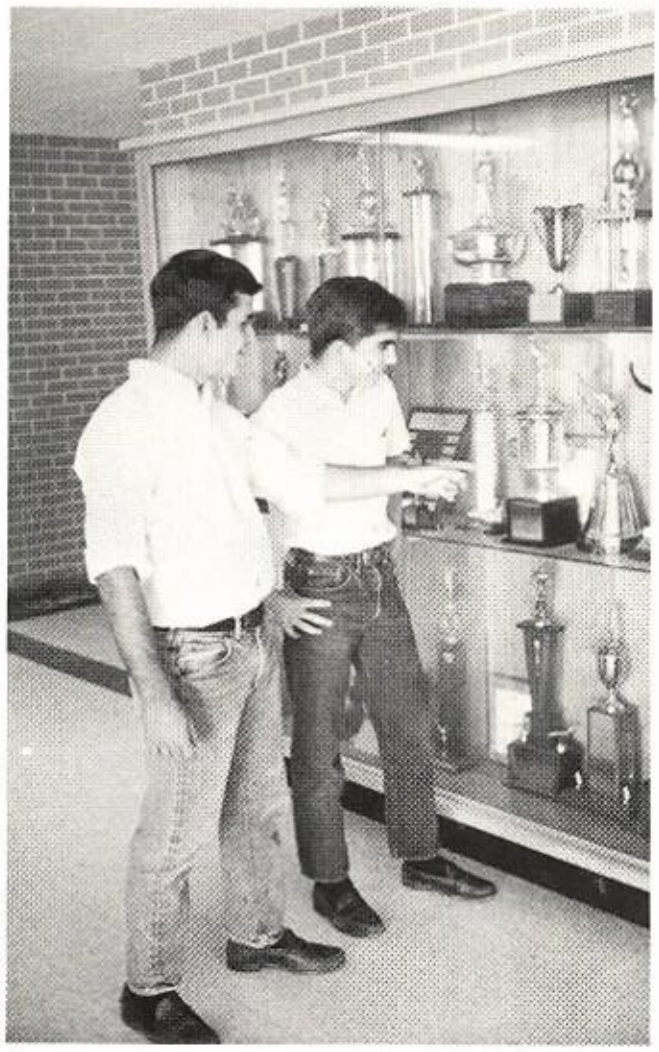
han studying





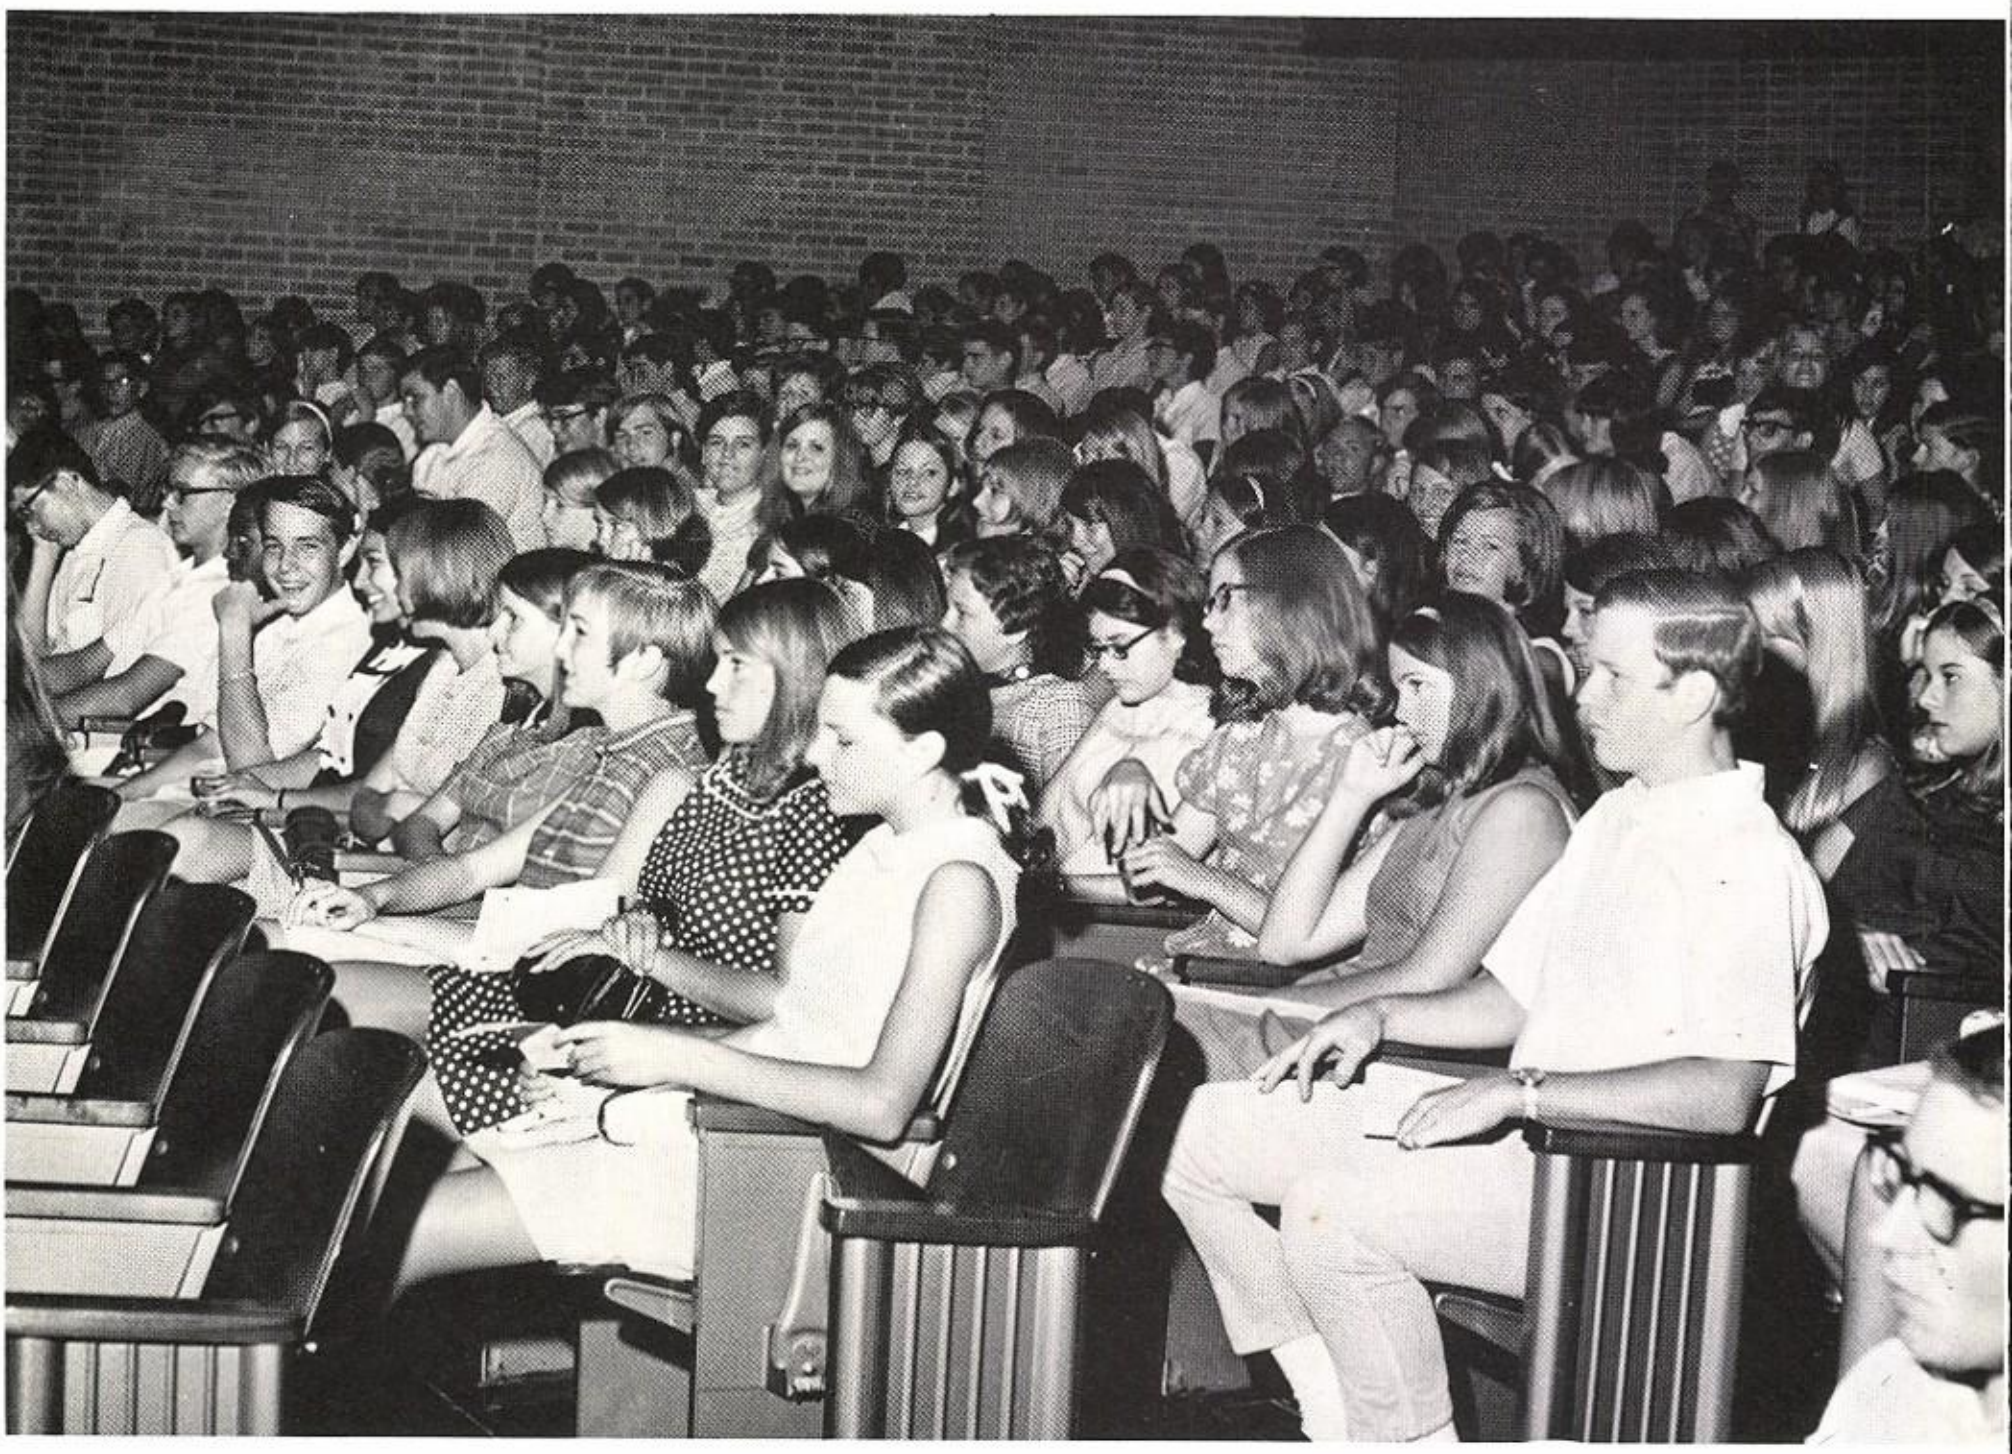
School, today, is far more than reading, writing, and arithmetic. It is pep rallies and football games as well. It's talent shows, musical productions, turkey shoots, and senior formals. It is an endless round of different activities which make Lee exciting as well as educational.

activities



"Look! That's the one I want," emphasizes hopeful Chuck Schwing to laughing Mike Norman.

"Hey, I saw him first. I get the boy in the blue shirt," says Jean Vaughn to her fellow friends(?) Nancy Lippincott, Kay Murphy, Martha Gilliam, and Suzanne Paine.



Sophomores listened attentively(?) at Sophomore Orientation as the administration went over our rules and regulations.

artha Gilliam deviously plots the path for aking her sophomore year the best.

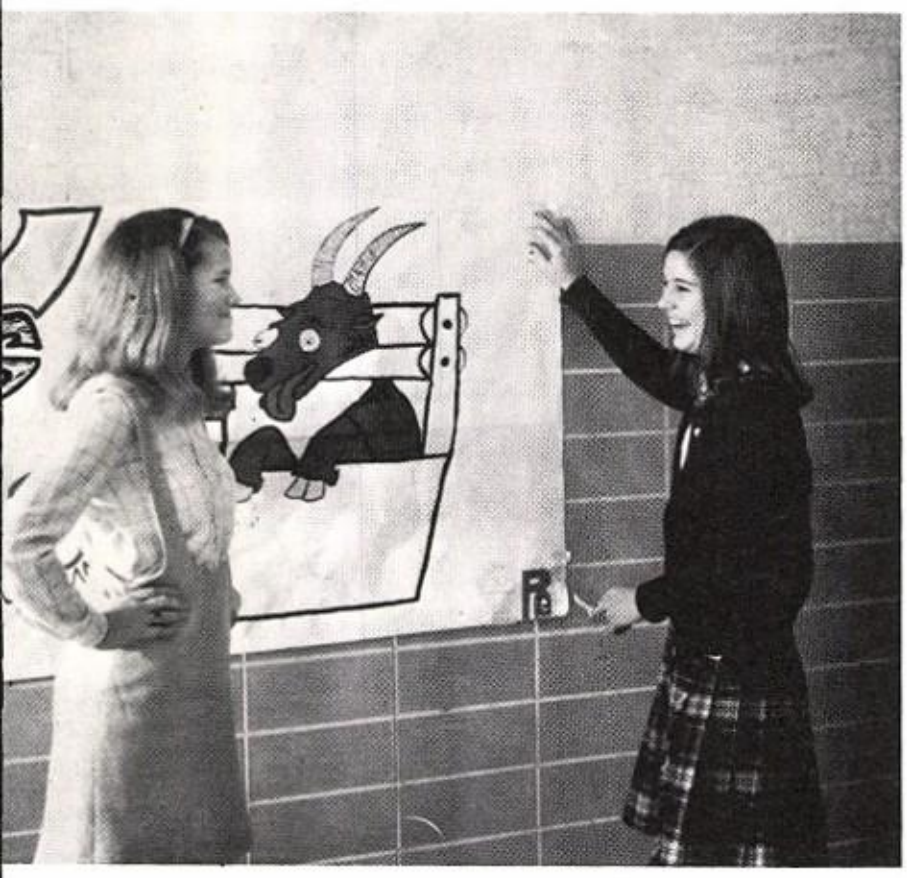
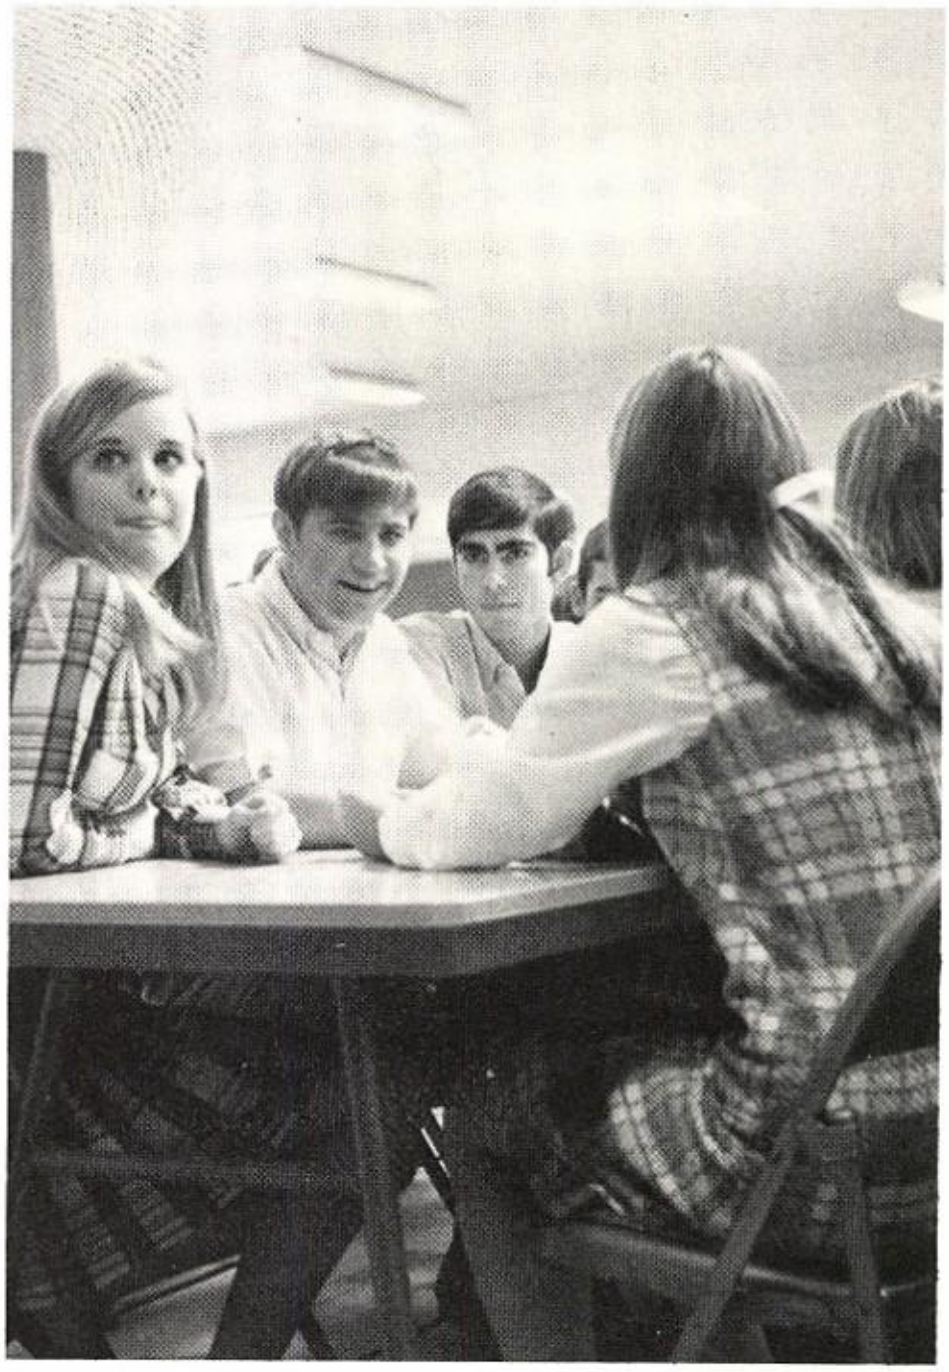
Nancy Lippincott snarls at the thought of junior and senior priority.

Each sophomore gets his first glimpse of Lee at ophomore Orientation. He comes in hesitantly and greeted with a series of speeches from outstanding pperclassmen. Anchor Club members take him on speedy tour of the building, and he is dismissed as aving learned his way around our high school. He aves a bit confused, but, nevertheless, he feels at ome with the Robert E. Lee Generals. It is then up him to become active in school activities and to make s three years at Lee not only productive ones, but joyable and memorable as well.



What's so unusual about my having a date for Friday night?" net Dixon asks Jeannie Ward, as they contribute to the irit of Lee by putting up posters.



Although Al Santa Maria and Frank Stiley capture the attention of most junior girls, they just can't make the grade with Jan Taylor.

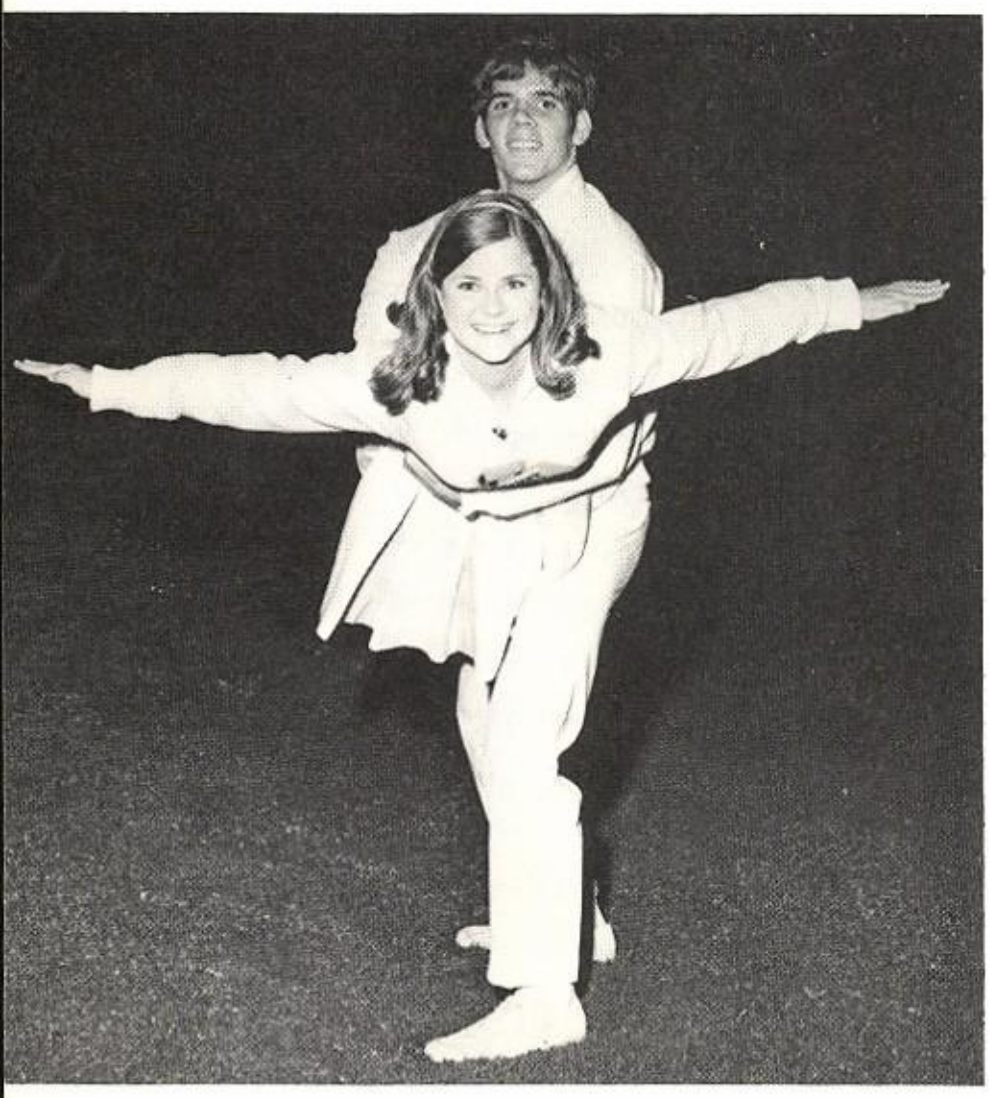
Cheerleaders are happy people who seem to be having fun all the time. More than that, though, cheerleaders are hard workers who have a big responsibility to their fellow students. This year, Margaret Rosenfeld and Don Stewart headed the "happy, hard-working" team that kept spirit running high for every sports event at Lee. Together, Margaret and Don, Susan Blundell and John Kolius, Kit Hanks and Mitchell Clifton, with Paige Catchings and Jimmy Erwin as alternates, practiced for hours after school. Together—most of the time—these eight stamped out "Now, this is a warning." Together they displayed an enthusiasm which helped to make 2000 different students into a proud student body.



Margaret Rosenfeld, Don Stewart

Paige Catchings, Jimmy Erwin

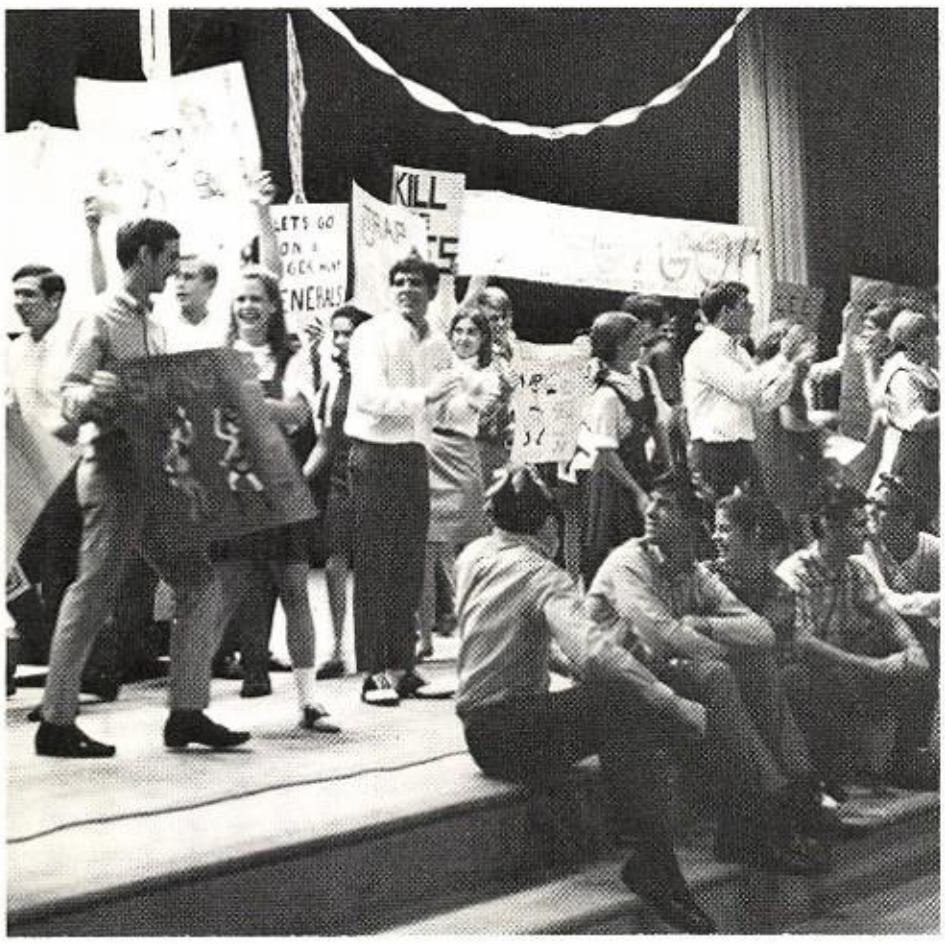
Don thinks he carries a lot of weight in this crowd of Mitchell, Kit, Margaret, Susan, and John.

Yeah, Stump!" Margaret Rosenfeld really puts her heart into when she yells at the pep rallies.

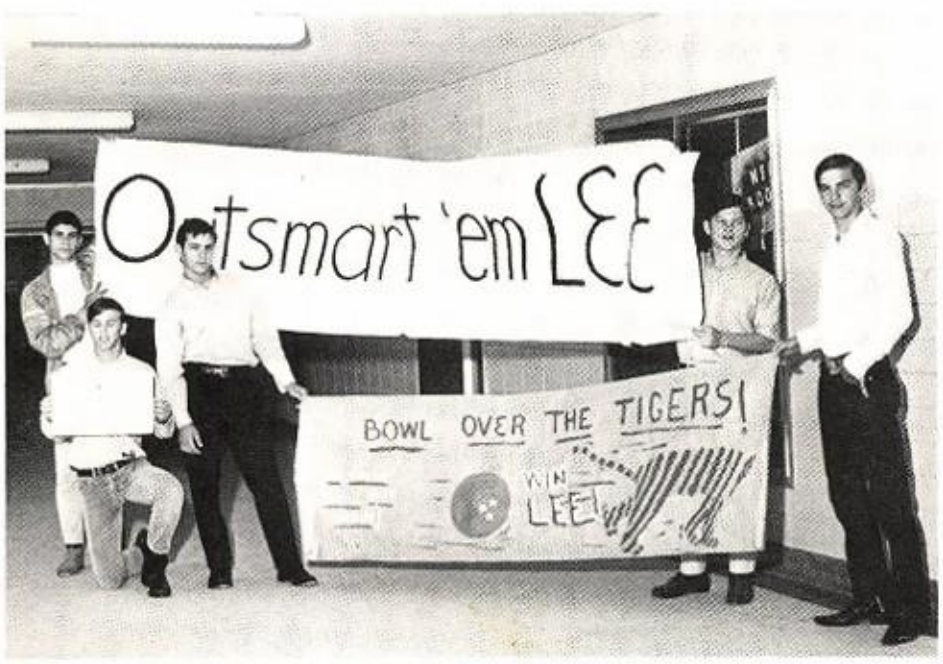
The Robert E. Lee Generals just seem to break through every barrier put before them.

Accompanied by her cardinal friends and secret service men, "Lady Bird Johnson" paid a visit to the Lee pep rally before they met disaster on the football field.

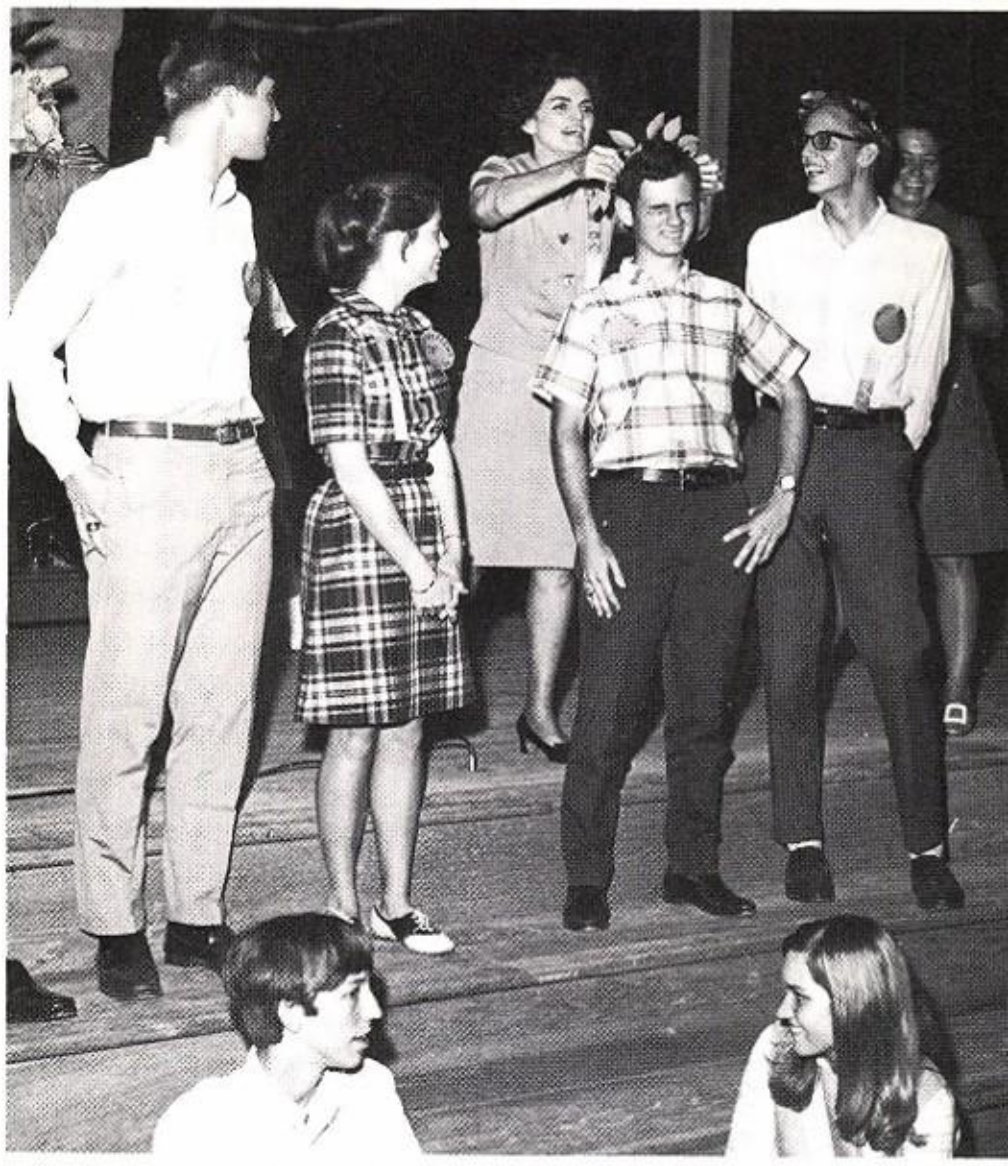
pep rallies



Lee's spirit is apparent at the pep rally for our Prep Bowlers.



Pep for the Prep is displayed by Mike Barrow, Greg Thorson, Lewis Dickson, Randy Brlansky, and Tommy Lewis.

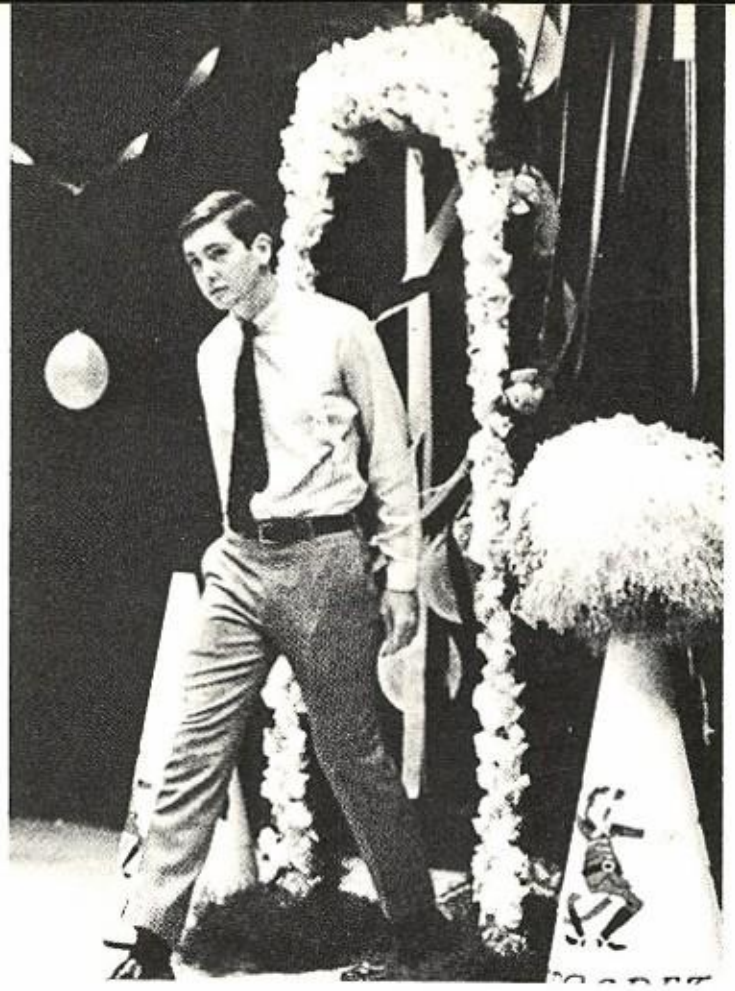


Jim Lawler flinches under Mrs. Scott's touch as she crowns him "Mr. Smart" as other Prep Bowlers John Lange, Anne Andrews, and Bill Brune watch the festivities.

promote enthusiasm

Portraying the modern day General, Rick Kutner shouts out "We've got soul!"

Debbie Vaughan happily accepts the title of Booster Club Sweetheart.



It looks like Gary Yeoman doesn't know which way to go when Coach Clements isn't there to tell him.

Margaret Rosenfeld is honored as the 1969 Homecoming Queen.

Dragnet takes a look at our "General line-up."

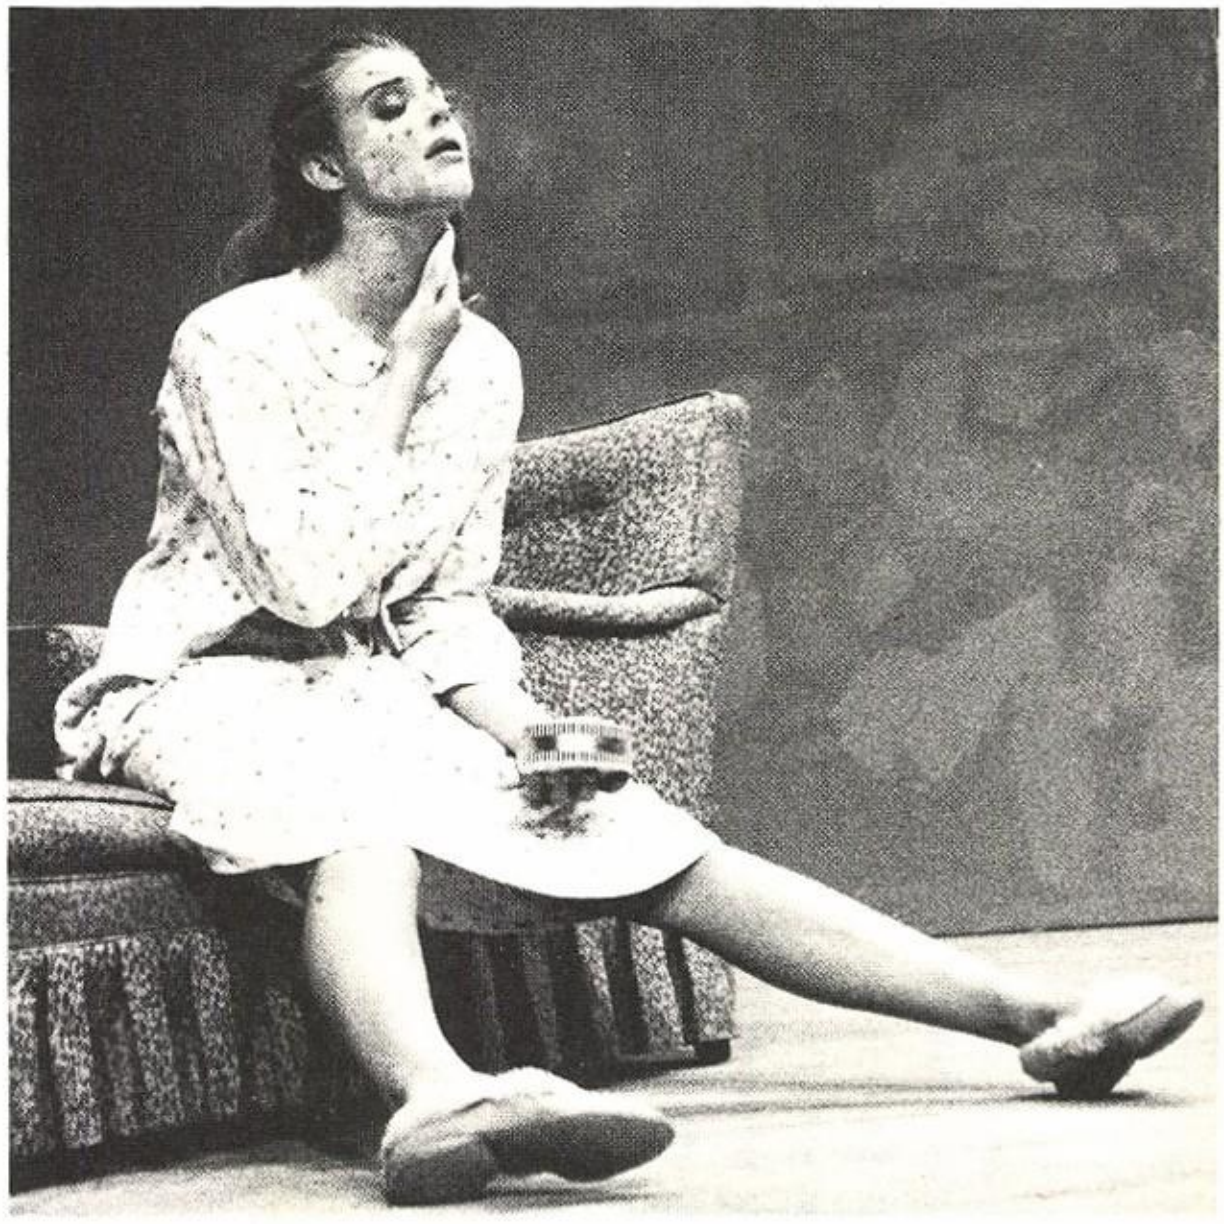
ason at the Football Banquet.

Pam Randle, a member in the cast of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," stares in disbelief to bring Act I to a climax.

. . . achieve rewards

Under the direction of Mr. Fred Smith, the drama department's first production was "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," a comedy relating the experiences of two young girls on an ocean cruise to Europe. The play starred Lynette Lambert and Pam Randle, and the entire cast spent many hours rehearsing to make this fall production a success.

There was another enthusiastic group at Lee that put forth a tremendous amount of effort this fall: the football team was the district and then the Bi-District Champions. They finished up their winning season with the annual Football Banquet held on December 2, 1968.



"It sure takes a long time to get ready for a formal," thinks Lynette Lambert as she puts the finishing touch to her make-up.

skits spice up talent show

With the coming of November, came the awakening of new talent. The talent show, held November 19, 1968, was undoubtedly the best one ever presented.

Music was provided by the Dixiliers and Southernaires, while the Student Council contributed two skits, "Little Abner" and "Peanuts." Dances dated from the modern interpretation back to the Charleston days. Mrs. Valles led the stage band in a dramatic presentation, but the "Fantastic Six" stole the show and proved football players can cheer just as well as they play the game.

STEVE SANFORD, All Super State;
City Career Scoring Record Holder

This year proved to be one of the finest in the history of football at Robert E. Lee. The Generals started slowly by dropping three of their first four games. The tide turned, however, and spirit picked up as the Generals blanked Bellaire, 17-0 in their pre-season finale.

Lee continued to roll over opponents and finished district play undefeated with a 30-0 romp over Lamar and a 27-0 rout of Waltrip. A powerful offense amassed 113 points, while a tough defense totaled three more shutouts and allowed only six points in one game. With these two potent weapons the Generals faced Bellaire for the second time for the Bi-District Championship. Both teams' pride and honor were at stake, but when the final gun sounded, the Generals appeared to have wanted the victory just a little bit more: the final score, 24-0. Next on the Generals' list was Booker T. Washington. Though the desire was there, the score was not, and the Generals fell to the Eagles, 31-14 in a vicious battle. Lee could be proud of their season though, for in twelve games the Generals shut out their opponents six times in eight wins and allowed only 98 points, while a score-crazy offense totaled over 220 points. This exciting season created more school spirit than ever before. It was a season of records, and wins. It was a proud season that will long be remembered by all of us; players, coaches, students, and fans.

For his second year as Head Football Coach, Joe Clements came through with another successful season. His slow-starting Generals captured the Bi-District Title and just fell short of the City Championship. His able assistants, Tommy Yates (Line Coach), Ronnie Wilson (Linebacker Coach), Bill McMillan, (Backfield Coach), and George Mehaffy (Ends and Junior Varsity Coach) aided the Generals to an impressive 8-4 season record. The '68-'69 Saber Sports Staff congratulates Coach Joe Clements and his coaching staff for a job well done.

MIKE ELLERBROCK,

The Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. George Mehaffy, had an outstanding season, with a 6 win 3 loss record, missing the district title by one game. Mike Ellerbrock and Bob Doherty were backfield standouts while the line was anchored by Bill Boatman and Kirk Pearce. Included in the six wins were a brilliant last minute victory over Sharpstown and a sound defeat over rival Lamar.

cagers tie for district

Besides compiling a better season record (20-8) than any previous Lee basketball team, the Generals 68-69 cage crew provided the Lee fans with more excitement than the carnival of thrills. A tough 54-53 loss to Waltrip in a district play-off game ended Lee's season and a last second 53-51 victory over Lamar made it all worthwhile. Two time all-city postman, Walter McCowan, led Lee in scoring and rebounding. Senior starters, Terry Conner and Lara Chandler, played super despite injuries. Guards Stacy Hunt and Donnie Howard performed steadily all season long, and Kurt Johnson and John Lange aided the General cause considerably. Juniors Mark Monroe, Joe McPhail, Chris McCarty and Mike Jones gained valuable experience for next season while helping to make Lee's season an exciting success.

Pride and desire have long been traditions at R. E. Lee. These traditions are being upheld by our Track Team under their new coach, Tommy Yates. Returning standouts like Ken Stowe, Steve Cumley, and Ken Hartgrove promise to do well in competition. The strongest part of our team consists of the mile relay team, some good middle distance men, and a strong team of weight men. With nine lettermen returning from last year's second place team, Coach Bill McMillan's hopes for a championship team grew brighter every minute. Steve Sanford, Larry Wilson, Bill Van-Eenanaam, and pitcher Jayme Peper are a few of the returning players that added spice to a potent Lee team. This year's talent was comparable to Lee's state semifinalist of two years ago. With a couple of base hits and some runs, Lee's pitchers could carry the Generals to a zone title.

Even Brenda Walker can't handle the rookie (David Campbell) moans Tom Hamilton.

Air-conditioners, intercoms, typewriters —a study of these and other machines has helped the SABER tell the story of Lee this year. Machines, though, have played but a secondary part in the story; for, as always, the people have made 1969 unique. People—Nixon supporters who covered their notebooks with stickers, Volkswagen owners who covered their cars with flowers, a basketball player who caught hepatitis and missed part of the season, a retired football team that played volleyball in the pouring rain. People—students and teachers who sometimes laughed, sometimes complained, sometimes listened, sometimes learned—they were the Robert E. Lee High School of 1969.

how the saber grew

Gay, like other 6th period SABER girls, is very uninhibited.

Christina would rather listen to Tom's forbidden cut-lines than do her indexing.

If I didn't know better, I'd think that Rob, Jim, and Jimmy were really working.

My friend calls them "Giant Weeks"; Mother Wisdom calls them Deadlines. By any name, a SABER deadline is a major event. It not only destroys romances and ruins grade averages, but publishes a yearbook as well.

This year's first deadline found Jimmy, Jack, Jim, Rob, and Debbie feverishly enlarging pictures. The second disturbed Katie, who soothed away her worries at a wedding reception. Only Judy fell to the last deadline: when her extra page was discovered she entered shock.

To meet deadlines, SABER called on many people. Mr. Gadbois, with his black paint, added what was missing and took out what didn't belong in many pictures. Mrs. Parson rushed several elections so that pictures could be made in time. In this, Dean Smith cooperated, checking grades and organizing the May-Fete in advance. Mr. Shivers helped, too—especially in the misplaced pictures crisis.

As editor-in-chief, I have had only to help; for, my staff has done all the work. Gigi not only compiled the junior section, but acted as assistant editor as well. Joanie handled clubs so well that her pages really didn't need my checking. Anne was in charge of money but typed and wrote cut-lines, too. For these and for every other SABER person—yes, even for David—I am very grateful.

To the Student Council for selling the SABER—to Mr. De-Eon Priest for answering technical questions—and to Mrs. Wisdom for two and a half years of patience with the Baptist preacher's kid—muchas gracias.
